Sisters, Brothers,

Your bargaining committee continued negotiations with the employer this week in order to renew your bargaining agreement. Following several days of negotiations devoted to non-monetary issues, we began monetary discussions with the employer and tried to reach an agreement. However, we realized that we would not have enough time and that we would have to plan more meeting dates in order to complete the negotiation process.

In accordance with everyone's agendas, the parties have agreed to resume discussions on February 1st, 2nd and 3rd, 2022.

Rest assured that your bargaining committee will continue to work hard to improve your working conditions and defend the issues you have put forward.

We will keep you informed as discussions unfolds.

In the meantime, we wish everyone an excellent holiday season and we hope to conclude an agreement to your satisfaction in 2023.
